

2015 UConn Conference on Truth Pluralism AND Logic Pluralism

What is truth?

Can there be more
than one way for something to be true?

Can there be more
than one correct
logic?

The UConn Conference on Truth Pluralism and Logical Pluralism aims to bring together a number of scholars interested in the philosophy of truth and logic to discuss the advantages and disadvantages of pluralist theories
in each domain.

April 17th - 19th

Locations:

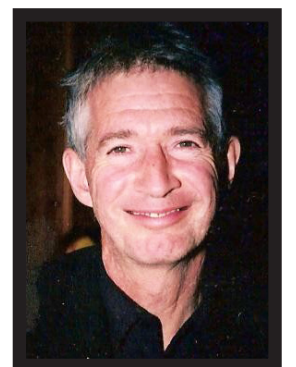

April 17 • Laurel Hall 306

April 18-19 • Laurel Hall 201

Keynote Speakers:

Paul Horwich (NYU)

Rosanna Keefe (Sheffield)

Paul Horwich

Rosanna Keefe

Invited Speakers:

Dorit Bar-On (UConn)

Aaron Cotnoir (St Andrews)

Michael Glanzberg (Northwestern)

Nathan Kellen (UConn)

Teresa Kouri (Ohio State)

Nikolaj J.L.L. Pedersen (Yonsei)

Kevin Scharp (Ohio State)

Keith Simmons (UConn)

Neil Tennant (Ohio State)

Conference Commentators:

Roy T. Cook (Minnesota)

Stewart Shapiro (Ohio State)

Crispin Wright (NYU/Stirling)

UCONN

Hosted by the Philosophy Department at the University of Connecticut and the Pluralisms Global Research Network

Support for this event given by:

UConn Office of the Vice Provost for Global Affairs;

UConn College of Liberal Arts and Sciences;

UConn Group in Philosophical and Mathematical Logic;

UConn Humanities Institute;

and the National Research Foundation of Korea

For more info:

<http://philosophy.uconn.edu/uconn-conference-on-truth-pluralism-and-logical-pluralism/>